

The invitation

NICK LEFORCE

The invitation will come
In the form of chaos-
Patterns interrupted;
As a dying man in the desert
No longer cares for time cards Or morning coffee,
You are bound to let go Of whatever you cling to.
The invitation will come when you let your fields go fallow and you become the seedless vessel because only emptiness can contain the universe.
The invitation will come when all doors open to darkness and you enter rooms without future knowing the only thing left to find is yourself. Acceptance Requires more than "Yes".
It grows out of your life and beyond you into your dreams colouring what you may become-what has always been cocooned within you waited to be released.
